

5 best websites for freelancers: How to get a job!

Nowadays, in Brazil, freelance jobs represent about 32% of the workforce. There are many reasons to explain the growth of this kind of economic sector. In fact, works like these can have a lot of advantages. There's more free time, the freelancer can choose his own schedule, clients and projects.

For these reasons, freelance writers' websites are currently very popular. It's worth mentioning that during the pandemic of covid-19, a great number of business companies started to hire professionals to produce some specific demands. These practices continued even after the sanitary crises.

Because of that, the number of freelance jobs is higher than ever. Actually, the business companies are looking for a great diversity of professionals, from app delivery, to web developers. If you are searching for a freelance job, you know that it's a difficult task, even if you have an online portfolio.

Still, there's no need to worry, we listed below the best websites for freelance writers. There are a lot of resources available and great work opportunities. They are all an online platform directly to professionals and business owners. This kind of job permits you to transform talent into money, with the freedom to choose the projects you desire.

Job opportunities

Similarly, the websites listed in this article can help you to initiate your freelancer career, find clients, and get more confidence in a short period of time. You can improve your skills working in different projects and expand your portfolio to get even more opportunities in the future.

First of all, working as a freelancer can be very challenging, and has its own particularities. Before you start searching for a job, it is indicated that you look for the opportunities in your area. You need to study the price average of the freelancers, and the payment conditions that you can offer.

Is necessary to mention that you can open a business company in your name. In this case, you have to get information about the taxes you will have to pay. Another thing, is important to have some money in the bank, because a freelance career has ups and downs, you won't have a fixed income. It's necessary to organize your financial life and plan your actions.

Another important thing to remember is the necessity to organize your work desk. You have to decide if you're gonna visit your clients, or not. In this case, think if you are going to charge to get to the clients office. It's also important to have a good workplace structure that allows you to be more efficient and productive.

1 - Fiverr

This web site works with a lot of freelancers in different areas. There are jobs for digital marketing, website development and social media. Is a platform with a lot of benefits, like free registration, online courses and a great number of categories to choose from. The platform connects professionals and business owners.

2 - 99Freelas

99Freelas is one of the best freelance websites available nowadays. You can have a free registration, a lot of job opportunities, and they pay for the work very fast. In disadvantage, there's a great amount of competition and the clients may not answer the freelancer. They have more than 500 thousand clients and 1.5 million professionals.

3 - LinkedIn

This is a great social network for freelancers and business owners. They have opportunities for writers, translation, copywriting and graphic designers. There are a lot of advantages, like knowing people that work in your area, news platforms, and low cost. You have to watch out for spammers and malicious users.

4 - Upwork

This platform works with freelancers in different areas, like marketing, software developing, writers, and website designers. The professional payment is protected, the clients are reliable, and the projects have a budget base. By the way, the selection process is complex, and they have expensive taxes.

5 - Jooble

Jooble is another great freelance website. They offer jobs related to writing, graphic design, and data. The job search is centralized, there are email alerts, without the need to register on the platform. In disadvantage, the application usually delays. In these cases, freelancers need to apply to the job directly in the source.